2. Only I follows
3. Only II follows
4. None follows
5. Either I or II follows

Solution

The correct answer is Option 2 i.e. Only I follows

I. The directives issued by the Supreme Court will lead to significant improvements in the functioning and professionalism of the police force in India, ultimately enhancing law enforcement and public safety. Follows (This assumption follows as it aligns with the intended purpose of the directives, which is to reform and improve the police force.)

II. The Supreme Court's directives will eliminate all issues and challenges within the Indian police force, and there will be no further need for reforms or adjustments in the future. Does not follow (This assumption does not follow because complex organizations like the police force may continue to face evolving challenges and require ongoing reforms and adjustments to meet changing needs, even after these directives are implemented.)

Hence, the correct answer is Only I follows.
