

Sentence Jumbles Questions Overview

Sentence Jumbles Questions have a good weightage in the Banking Exam and the type of question asked in Banking exam is similar to the question mentioned below. It has been solved and explained by Gargi.ai Experts and they have tried to elaborate the concept used in Sentence Jumbles Questions.

Question

In the following questions, a statement is divided into 5 different segments. Part (A) in the sentence is fixed and other parts may not be in the correct sequence. You have to rearrange the other parts of the sentence to make it contextually and grammatically correct and if the correct option of sequence doesn't match any of the given sequence mark (5) i.e., "None of the above" as your answer. Scientists have been warning about (A)/ — for just any intervention. Folks are fatigued (B)/ the danger of pseudo-science: while the pandemic called (C)/ especially when nothing seems to have worked (D)/ for urgent interventions, there was no place — none (E).

Difficulty : Moderate

Average Time : 55 Seconds

Options :

1. ADECB
2. AEDCB
3. ADCBE
4. ACEBD
5. None of the above

Solution

The correct answer is Option 4, i.e. ACEBD

Concept/Grammar Rules	Application
-----------------------	-------------

The sentences must be realigned in a way that makes a meaningful statement as a result. Option 4, i.e. ACEBD here seems to be the best sequence as it conforms to the entire theme of the passage.	Taking statement "A" under consideration "C" seems to show conjunction with it by stating about Scientists have been warning about the danger of pseudo-science. Statement "E" seems to be succeeding "C" and after this "B" seems to be preceding "D" as "D" provides an ending to the statement. So, we got a sequence i.e. ACEBD, i.e. "Scientists have been warning about the danger of pseudo-science: while the pandemic called for urgent interventions, there was no place — none — for just any intervention. Folks are fatigued especially when nothing seems to have worked."
